World Earth day celebration with Nick Parker of the The3Enginners at Noremarsh Junior School

On Friday 21st April, the author Nick Parker came to Noremarsh Junior School. Nick is one third of the writers for the beautifully written “The Adventure of Scout” book series. The visit was planned just ahead of Earth Day on Saturday 22nd April.

In this book, Nick and his co-authors aim to create and to celebrate awareness around current environmental issues. Nick and the team as known as “The3Enginners”, with each of them specialising in different areas of engineering but all wanting to make a change to the environment and as an example Nick currently works designing submarines and Matt works as a System Engineer. The session featured story time with their original book, why The3Enginners started and what their plans are for the future. A powerful message for the junior school aged children at Noremarsh to hear.

The children listened intently as Nick read about the adventures of Scout in her mission to clean up the beach. Nick asked the children to keep an eye out for Scout throughout the book. The children loved the books and their rhymes and Nick commented on how incredible it was to see the children so excited about his book.

Hilary Macmeekin Headteacher at Noremarsh Junior School went on to say “It was a pleasure to invite in Nick Parker to share his story and help spread awareness around environmental issues. Our children loved the book and raved about it to myself at break time, they loved the rhymes and the impact the story had on them. We are all very excited to plant our seeds that Nick generously donated to the school in our forestry school, we are always looking at ways to make our school green and so Nick’s kind donation will add to our already growing forestry area.”
